This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

INTRODUCTION.

GENTLEMEN OF THE CLASS OF EIGHTY-SEVEN:

It is my pleasant duty to submit to you this first report, as an outline of our college course. The ground covered is the same as is usually covered in the first report; wherever changes have been made they have been merely in the line of extension. That this report is complete or free from error is, of course, not to be expected. I can only hope that you will treat my omissions and mistakes with the same spirit of courtesy and forbearance that has uniformly met my requests for information, and beg that you will give me an early opportunity to remedy these defects.

It is to be regretted that no more definite information can be given about the temporary members. A number answered promptly and fully the letters sent them, and to those gentlemen I wish to express my sincere thanks on behalf of the class. Many seem to have become absolutely indifferent to their college associates, or, identifying themselves with other classes, fail to conceive of any interest in their welfare on our part.

The list of addresses at the end of the report is as accurate as could be made from the data in my possession. Let me urge upon each one of you the necessity of informing me at once of any change of address that the value of this important part of the reports may not be impaired.

We shall entertain the class of '88 at Commencement next year in some room in the college yard, to be announced later. Notices will be published in the Boston Herald, Post, and Advertiser, and the more important in the New York Times.

The next report, to be issued in 1890, will be a record of your personal careers after graduation. Let me ask each and all of you to contribute to its completeness by writing to me any news of any '87 men you may have.

I will gladly answer, to the best of my ability, any requests for information about '87 men.

Your classmate,

GEORGE P. FURBER.

CLASS CRADLE.

All members of the Class who received degrees June 29, 1887, and marry after Commencement are eligible for this distinction. The Class Secretary and Class Committee will impartially consider all claims submitted to them, and will award the cradle to the child whom they shall deem fairly entitled to such good fortune.

CLASS LIVES.

It has been a custom, long established, for each member of the graduating class to leave with the Secretary a short sketch of his life, and these "lives" are bound together and preserved for the use of the class and of its biographer. It is to keep up this custom, and to provide a source of information for the class in after years, and even a means of identification of its members, that I have so persistently asked for your lives. Let me again urge upon you the importance of this duty. I assure you it is no whim of mine or no idle curiosity which prompts this demand. The "lives" serve a definite and useful purpose, though they may seem of little or no value now. Those who have already filled the blanks and those who have written lives, I thank most sincerely; those who have not yet responded I must again entreat to send me either blanks or lives as soon as convenient.

The class is to be congratulated on having so large a fund already subscribed, but with the heavy expenses it has to bear in the first years, the amount is still too small. A number of gentlemen who doubtless intend to subscribe, have as yet neglected to send me their subscriptions. It is to be hoped that they will atone for this neglect by subscribing liberally and promptly.

I would also remind a number of subscribers that the first instalment of their subscriptions has not yet been paid, and beg that they will attend to the payment at once. All payments should be made to the Secretary, and will be promptly acknowledged.

The thanks of the class are due to our Class Day Committee for a contribution to the Class Fund larger than that of any previous committee, with the exception of that of 1886.

DECEASED.

RULUFF STERLING CHOATE.

Ruluff Sterling Choate, eldest son of Joseph H. Choate, was born in New York, Sept. 25, 1864. He fitted for college at the Berkeley School in New York, and passed his examinations with honors in the spring of 1882. He did not enter college immediately, but having passed a year abroad, entered in the fall of 1883 with the class of '87.

Mr. Choate was the second member of the class to be removed by death during the Freshman year. In him the class lost a man who promised to become one of its most prominent members. Though in college only six months he was already widely known to his classmates. His sociable disposition and marked individuality were as attractive to those who knew him intimately, as were his absolute independence and uniform cordiality of manner to casual acquaintances.

In his studies, he was undoubtedly one of the ablest men in the class. Though indifferent to rank for itself, he was eager in the pursuit of any branch of learning in which he felt an interest—and these were not few in number. He had thus acquired a fund of information remarkable in so young a man.

Many of those who had known him but the few months of the fall and winter terms, felt his loss as a personal one. Prominent among these was one, George C. Baker, who, strange to say, was himself destined not to live to the end of his college course.

Mr. Choate's death was very sudden. He went to his home in New York at the beginning of the Easter recess and died.

A meeting of the class was held after the recess, at which resolutions of grief at his loss, and sympathy with his family were passed.

EDWARD FOX FESSENDEN.

Edward Fox Fessenden was born in Portland, Maine, April 22, 1866. He lived in Portland until 1874, when he accompanied his parents on a nine months' trip to California, which was undertaken for his health, and returned much improved.

During his early school life he attended private schools in Portland, but only in the forenoon. This habit was continued until 1878, when he was sent for one year to the private school of the Rev. Mr. Knapp, at Plymouth, Mass. The next year he passed at home, attending a private school. In 1880 he entered Phillips Academy, Exeter, where he remained three years, when he was admitted as a freshman in Harvard University, at the age of seventeen.

His favorite studies were ancient and modern languages, his detestation, mathematics. In college he preferred political economy and history, studies which he pursued as soon as permitted to do so. His standing in his studies was respectable. He took much interest in athletics and twice received a prize for the half-mile run. During his junior year he was a member of the Crimson board as base ball editor. He was a member of the Art Club, Hasty Pudding Club, Institute, and B. Θ. Π.

On the sixth of March at the beginning of the last term of his senior year, when at home, he became ill with a severe cold which developed into pneumonia, and died five days afterwards on the eleventh of March, 1887.

He had many strong friends among his classmates to whom his sterling qualities had bound him by the strongest ties.
